Garbage Can Check Urged By City Health Authority

In a statement made this week by Dr. W. D. Lundquist, Commissioner of Health, Bulloch County Health Department, homeowners in Statesboro are urged to check the facilities for removal of their garbage by the sanitation crew of the city.

His statement in full is as follows:

"Summer is approaching which means that more sanitation problems are going to arise as the temperature becomes higher. House-owners are going to be more in evidence as are odors from waste materials, particularly refuse and garbage. Therefore, your city health authority is demanding that every person within the city limits who expects his garbage and trash to be removed by the city sanitation crew, to provide themselves with metal garbage cans with particularly tight metal covers. The reason for this is that during the summer months and will begin to breed and odors from decaying vegetation materials. It is also recommended that no garbage can be larger than 30 gallons in size, because larger cans than this makes emptying very difficult for the sanitation crewmen.

"Covered garbage cans are required for residences and business houses alike, and the city has provided further protection to you available by an agreement with the city health authority. All of the garbage cans in the business district will be sprayed with DDT inside and out 2 or 3 times each week, which should aid materially in the prevention of fly breeding in the down town area."
